Debutantes present fashion show proceeds to AVHMC

A check for $3,592.24 has been presented to the Antelope Valley Hospital Medical Center by the Alpha Charter Guild Debutantes of 1982.

Dr. Ralph Holmes, president of the AVHMC Board of Directors, officially accepted the check on behalf of the medical center.

Making the presentation were Carlene Lampela, president of the Alpha Charter Guild; Esther Brewer, first vice president and Debutante Chairman; and debutantes Colleen Hickert and Jill Hinds.

The donation will make a significant addition to the Alpha Charter Guild's project which features purchase of medical equipment for Coronary Care to assist heart patients of the Antelope Valley.

The check represents proceeds from the Alpha Charter Guild Debutante fashion show, "Celebration." Featuring latest Fall fashions available in Antelope Valley shops, the fashion show was held August 9 at the Antelope Valley Inn

Convention Center, Lancaster. The debutantes appeared as models.

Co-chairman of the fashion presentation were Frances Evenson and Jo Ann Beebe, members of the Alpha Charter Guild to Antelope Valley Hospital Medical Center.

A swim party immediately followed the fashion show at the Lancaster home of Eilene and Nick Maluccio, debutante parents. Carol and Joe Stello were co-hosts of the event.

The debutante fashion show is an annual event planned to raise funds for a debutante gift to Antelope Valley Hospital Medical Center. Last year, the debutantes voted to make their gift a continuing contribution to Coronary Care.

The next Alpha Charter Guild Debutante event will be the spectacular Hourglass Ball scheduled for the Saturday following Thanksgiving at Fair Center Hall. At this time, the debutantes officially will be presented to society concluding their social season.
